WHY THIS ROLE EXISTS

Our API is growing. Our developer ecosystem is next.

We're investing in building a strong, welcoming developer community around our evolving API and platform.

This role will help define what great developer experience looks like at Buffer, from the ground up.

WHAT YOU'LL DO

You'll connect deeply with developers, internally and externally.

From supporting API questions and improving documentation, to engaging developers on Discord and sharing insights with our engineering team, your work will influence product direction and real customer outcomes.

BUILDER + BRIDGE

You'll translate between code, people, and possibilities.

- ✓ You'll create technical content, demos, and walkthroughs.
- ✓ You'll build proof-of-concepts and prototypes.
- ✓ And you'll help turn developer feedback into clearer docs, better APIs, and smarter decisions.

COMMUNITY AND COLLABORATION

This role is about relationships, not just releases.

You'll nurture our developer community, show up in conversations, and represent Buffer in external developer spaces.

You'll work closely across Engineering, Advocacy, and Marketing to keep developer needs front and center.

THE EXPERIENCE AND MINDSET

You've lived close to APIs and developer workflows.

You've likely started as a software engineer and moved into developer relations or advocacy.

You're empathetic, curious, self-driven, and comfortable operating with ambiguity while learning in public.

HOW WE WORK

Remote, collaborative, and intentional.

We're a fully distributed team that values clear communication, strong documentation, and async-friendly work.

We also come together in person once or twice a year to build deeper connections.
